

RPCTech

ipod nano: it's small

this has been the product of very intense speculation.

Okay, as far as i know the nano is a success ,but if we as group don't tell people about this podcast, we will not last in the abyss of 15,000 podcasts. Also something that will help improve the show is if you guy's sent reviews and questions.

So for now visit the blog at: rpctech.blogspot.com and post your comments!

MOTOROKR

Okay i was a little disappointed with the itunes phone. My advise is get a nano instead ,but if you want mp3's on your phone you might say, "Well I need mp3's on my phone."

Well, guess what this phone is almost identical to other the ROKR ,and other companies are working like mad to make a phone that can beat it hands down...and to top it off the ceo of motorola said, "Screw the nano."

-Josiah Olson-

THE BLUE-RAY DISC VERSUS HD-DVD

The battle between the hd-dvd and blu-ray disc rages on...will it never end well an end may be in "write I mean sight."

No side has given any ground yet ,but it looks like sony's rope is starting to run short. What do i mean by this: well first microsoft and intel have taken sides against the blue-ray. Second, the hd-dvd has the support of pretty much every motion picture company, beside sony of course.

The bad thing about this competition is that there may be two formats that both have movies you want on only one of the formats,and if the players are $500 a piece, you will have to pay a pretty penny to watch your favorite movie.